DISPOSAL OF THE KAPAA HOMESTEADS

Kawaihau People Want
Chance To Buy
Property

The arrival of George W. Fairchild gives special interest to the following from the Garden Islands:

There is still considerable uncertainty as to the fate of the Kapa lands. When the Mojonas were given their chance at the property, there was considerable grumbling among the residents of the district, because the administration left them entirely out of consideration. The Russians came and went without doing much damage to the land, and then the Kawaihau people began to hope that they might get a chance. For a long time nothing could be learned about the administration's intention regarding the land. There was some rumors in the papers that Pratt was going to do this or that, but the official himself kept mum of officiality.

It seems that he has let the Honolulu people know that he intends to open up the tract, and in some way or other the Kapa residents got wind of the news. They made arrangements between themselves, and also saw the Makee Co. about the attitude that the corporation was going to take in this matter. They were told that the company was willing to throw up the lease at once, although there was still about two years left before the lease expired. As a condition for such action it was demanded, however, that the intending buyers enter into a grinding contract with the sugar company. The contract would be in the main follow the lines of the Kapa contract with a sliding price for cane which with sugar at its present price would amount to about $4 per ton. It would be more liberal than the Hawaii one, however, as no restriction would be put upon the class of labor that the planter would be allowed to use.

It can easily be understood that this proposition was readily accepted and everything promised a settlement of the question in the near future. But now there is a hitch somewhere.

Some person or circumstance has caused the seed of distrust to sprout up in the community. Some believe that the sugar company is going to beat them out in one way or another. Others distrust that Governor Carter and Commissioner Pratt are going to treat them squarely; still others look askance at their fellow settlers and say that the other man is no use.

It is to be regretted that such misunderstandings should take place, as they apparently bear out the prophecies heard from many quarters, that it is impossible to realize the idea of settling Hawaii lands with farmers.

Those favoring the corporation point to Kapa and say that no matter what is offered the people something different will be demanded.

The friend of the settlers on the other hand maintain that it is the corporation which disseminates the distrust in order to make as many as possible, the administration included, believe that it is useless to offer the land for sale, and that wrangling will break up the whole scheme.

SOLDIER BOYS NOT FORGOTTEN

The soldiers at Camp McKinley experienced a most delightful surprise yesterday morning as they took their places at the long tables to the breakfast hall. At each plate a neatly wrapped package, tied with white ribbon, greeted each soldier.

Each package contained beside the present a neat little card which bore a Christmas wish of good cheer to the recipient.

The name of the giver of these remembrances will not be made public at the present, but this does not lessen the appreciation of the many soldier boys who are far from home and dear friends and they extend their most heartfelt thanks to the giver.

BOARD OF ARCHIVES
MEETS AND

ADOPTS REGULATION

At the meeting of the Board of Archives held this morning the following resolution, offered by Commissioner Judd, was adopted:

No books, document or paper of any nature or kind whatsoever, nor any relic or article now deposited among the archives of Hawaii shall be removed from the archives building except upon a written order in the Hawaiian, signed by a Commissioner of Public Archives.

Mr. Judd stated in explanation of the resolution that there are many valuable documents and relics now in the archives building, and no chances should be taken of their being lost through carelessness or otherwise.

There were present at the meeting Chairman Jack Atkinson, Mr. Judd and Librarian Lydecker. The meeting was for the purpose of gathering up the loose odds and ends and getting things in shape for the regular work of the building, which is now being filled with the documents and relics for the housing of which it was built.

In view of the value of many of the papers and records, it was the opinion of the meeting that something ought to be done to preserve those that are needed from time to time in the courts as evidence. It was proposed that a bill should be introduced in the Legislature providing for the having made of certified copies of such papers, which shall be accepted as the originals. Many of the latter, besides being valuable, are old and in bad condition, and will not bear much handling. The measure will probably be presented at the coming session of the Legislature.

Mr. Atkinson suggested that there are many documents and papers in the possession of private individuals which would be valuable additions to the archives, and no opportunity should be lost of getting hold of them. In nearly all cases, he thought, the owners would be glad to have such things placed in the fine proof vault of the archive building. It was resolved that whenever any member of the commission heard of any such papers, a note of the fact should be made so that an effort might be made to get it.

Secretary Atkinson asked Librarian Lydecker to make a report to him at the end of the year, so that he could include in his own report to the Governor an estimate of the expense of running and maintaining the archives building during the next two years.

Mr. Lydecker reported that there is great need of a number of flat cases, which are needed for the filing of certain papers. The cases now installed are not suitable for all purposes. An estimate will also be submitted of the probable cost of getting such new cases as will be needed and of building the proposed neozanline gallery.

WILL DISCUSS PAN PACIFIC PROJECT

Governor Carter has called a meeting for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in his office of the Joint committee from the Merchants Association and the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the proposed Pan-Pacific exposition.

Notwithstanding the efforts of some knackers to discredit the proposition, there is no disposition on the part of those who are most interested in it to let the matter drop. But it is evident that something is needed besides talk and an effort is to be made to put the proposition on a substantial footing and get to work on it as soon as possible.

Those who have had anything to do with expositions know that there is an immense amount of work connected with them, and the sooner plans are made and work begun, the better for the success of the exposition and the annual meeting which is proposed to be held in conjunction with it.

It is hardly probable that any definite plans will be presented at the meeting this afternoon, but the matter will probably be more fully discussed and preliminary steps may be taken toward getting the project into working order.

The Katia Christian Sunday school will give a Christmas entertainment at the Chapel, corner of Ulrich and Beckley streets at 7:30 tonight. All members and friends of the school are invited.
